NEWS IN BRIEF

Explosion knocks out power

An underground explosion knocked out power in lower downtown and throughout some of Santa Barbara's Eastside yesterday, mangling traffic and sending crews scrambling to remedy the problem, authorities said. The explosion, reported at 4:25 p.m., was centered at the intersection of Gutierrez and Quarantina streets, a police spokesman said.

Though the spokesman did not know the exact perimeters of the outage, or how many homes or businesses were impacted, he said it stretched east to Garden Street, possibly further, but did not affect Milpas Street. At 8 p.m., the spokesman said power had been restored in much of the area, but traffic lights were still not working properly.

Sailboat washes ashore in SB

A 37-foot sailboat swashed ashore near the lighthouse on Santa Barbara's Mesa late Sunday evening in dense fog.

Two men aboard, identified only as a 62-year-old and a 58-year-old, were not injured during the incident, which occurred at approximately 9:15 p.m., fire officials said.

The "Lois Mae," the name of the Cape George sailboat, had departed from Hawaii four weeks ago. En route to Oceanside, Calif., the vessel sprung a leak and the crew of two decided to divert to Santa Barbara for repairs.

Fire crews made their way down to the beach at Mesa Lane and found the vessel on its starboard side. Both men were taken to the Harbor Patrol office, fire officials said, and further assessment of the boat was planned for yesterday morning.

THE MELTING POT restaurant at 608 Anacapa Street, which closed last January, will be replaced by a new casual seafood restaurant named Arch Rock Fish. The restaurant is named after the famous rock on Anacapa Island. They are working with the Farmers Market and fishermen at the harbor to help develop the menu. When visiting Arch Rock Fish last week I spoke with culinary advisor chef Scott Leibfried, known to national television audiences as Gordon Ramsey's sous chef on Hell's Kitchen and also as a judge/host of many Food

John. He tells me that they hope to open the restaurant in September around Labor Day. You can follow the progress of their new location by visiting their page on Facebook.

RUMOR MACHINE: My home computer was recently hit by a computer virus (first time ever) which pretty much made the thing unusable. Rather than wiping the hard disk and reinstalling an ancient copy of Windows XP I went out and bought a brand-new Windows 7 computer at Best Buy in Goleta. One of the nice features of Windows 7 is that it automatically installs software for almost any device you plug into it. Last night I plugged the Rumor Machine into my new computer and Windows 7 quickly recognized it and, to my surprise, displayed a message on the screen that read "Ruby's Cafe & Spirits Lounge at 734 State Street, which closed last January, is planning to reopen later this year immediately next door to their previous location." As always, this rumor might be completely false or a brilliant forecast of future events. Your call.

TWO GOLETA EATERIES CLOSE: China City Restaurant at 5688 Calle Real in Goleta and Presto Pasta at 5764 Calle Real both closed their doors at the end of May.

BAY CAFE CLOSURES: Bay Cafe at 131 Anacapa Street closed its doors last Sunday in preparation to reopen soon as Bay Roadhouse Bar & Grill 202 State Street, next to Union Ale Brewing Co.

HAPPY HOUR HOUSE WIVES: Three ladies who go by the nicknames "City Wife," "Party Wife" and "Wine Wife" have developed a web site that tracks the Happy Hour scene throughout Santa Barbara. Get updated information about happy hours, specials and more. Visit their web site online at HappyHourHousewivesofSB.blogspot.com.
